

Choco Sun Sunflower

Helianthus annuus 'Choco Sun'

- Uses: Scarcely a foot high, this thrilling new Sunflower sports enormous lemon-yellow blooms on well-branched plants just right for flowerpots, window boxes, and the FRONT of the annual bed! You can even grow Choco Sun on the kitchen windowsill, so compact is it! Dust off your finest flowerpots, clear out the windowboxes, and prepare a wide swathe in the annual bed -- Choco Sun is adorable, addictive, and absolutely essential for your summer garden, indoors or out!
- Exposure/Soil: Full sun. Water regularly, when top 3 in. of soil is dry. Use slow release fertilizer for best results. Prefers not to be overwatered.
- Growth: Ultra dwarf sunflower. 12" tall and wide.
- Hardiness: Zone 9-11, annual, May reseed.
- Foliage: The foliage is a handsome rich, dark green so intense it looks black from a distance. The plant branches young and sets numerous buds on its side shoots, giving you more blooms than you might think possible.
- Flower: Just 10 to 12 inches high and slightly wider, it sets a very large bloom on the central stalk, accompanied by numerous smaller ones on the side-shoots.