

Prince of Orange Crocosmia

Drought tolerant and deer resistant!

Crocosmia 'Prince of Orange'

- Use: Developed for its exceptional seedpods in fall, this new hybrid from The Netherlands forms an upright clump of dark green, sword-like foliage topped with arching stems of 20 or more vivid red-orange blossoms with a distinctive, burgundy speckled, gold center. The flowers are spaced very close together on the stems, resulting in a more concentrated blast of color from midsummer through late summer. The decorative seed pods that develop in fall are popular in dried flower arrangements. Try it as cut flowers or as a border plant in your perennial garden and it is also a major attractor to butterflies. Deer resistant and drought tolerant!
- Exposure/Soil: Tolerates full sun to part sun. Water regularly, when top 3 in. of soil is dry to start. Little water needed once established.
- Growth: 'Lucifer' has a plant height of 36-42" and a plant spread of 30-36".
- Hardiness: Zone 5-9, Perennial
- Foliage: Deciduous Broad, sword-like leaves are attractive even when the plants are not in bloom and, from a design standpoint, are effective for adding a spiky textured element to the landscape.
- Flower: Vivacious red-orange blossoms with gold centers flecked with burgundy
