

Silver Edge Japanese spurge

Pachysandra terminalis 'Silver Edge'

- Use: A maintenance-free ground cover is one of the most popular ground covers. It is an excellent ground cover for shady and problem areas as it grows in any soil and is one of the few ground covers that will grow under pine trees. Pachysandra will transform your otherwise bare and ugly ground areas into attractive year-round cover.
- Exposure/Soil: Part sun-shade. Moist, well-drained soil, but not soggy.
- Growth: Grows to 6 to 10 in. tall, spreads moderately by underground stems
- Hardiness: 5-9; perennial
- Foliage: Has attractive evergreen stems that hold extra glossy, bright green leaves edged in a silvery white.
- Flower: Inconspicuous white flowers in spring.

Deer Resistant and virtually problem free.!
