Phlox subulata 'Spring Series'

- Use: Brilliant starry flowers cover the evergreen foliage in late spring. Carefree for the novice or expert gardener. Plant on a slope or bank for a rewarding flash of color. The blanket of color in late spring will turn heads of passersby when used on hillsides, over walls, or even used in a natural lawn. With its uniform, dense flowering, every square inch of foliage will be covered in flowers. This is a selection of a native North American species.
- Exposure/Soil: Sun– part sun, very easy to please. Provide well-drained, moist soil, but not soggy. Use a slow release fertilizer. Good soil drainage is important. Cut back stems after flowering by 1/2 to maintain form and promote denser growth plus to stimulate a possible light rebloom.
- Growth: Moderate grower to 4-6 in. tall, 3 ft. wide. Prune lightly after flowering to encourage a tidy habit and sometimes a rebloom.
- Hardiness: Zone 3-8, Perennial
- Foliage: Evergreen. Small trailing, green leaves.
- Flower: This series has numerous colors with real “WOW” power and one of the earliest of spring bloomers.

DROUGHT TOLERANT! Carpets hillside in blossoms. Good for erosion control. Superb in borders, beds, and open woodland gardens.
